This movement has attracted the attention not only of England and of France, but of all the countries of Europe and of the Orient. It is not too much to hope that there are a number of others who will be willing now to sign the same kind of treatles as those already made, and that we may ultimately have a net-work of such agreements making long

Relations Are Peculiar.
In closing, the President pointed out the peculiar relations between this country and the Central American reublics, due largely to the insistence f the United States that the Monroe of the United States that the Monroe Doctrine be observed. He declared that if the United States insists upon the Monroe Doctrine, it should also be willing to help the republics, as was done with Santo Domingo, by collecting their revenues for them and applythese revenues to the payment of just obligations.

these revenues to the payment of just obligations.

"Is it not better," asked the President, "thus to anticipate trouble and ward it off by mere civil arrangements that involve but little burden than to wait until war follows, until European nations undertake a forcible collection of their debts, and when we have come face to face with a European controversy and continuous wars in the Central American republics themselves?"

Mr. McCabe said Dr. Wiley, explaining that he did not want to antagonize Secretary of Agriculture Wilson, who had overruled him on the Remsen board's advice, had written him that the Indiana authorities wanted to take the depositions of himself and his assistants who had conducted the "famous poison squad" experiments, from which they determined that ben-zoate of soda was a harmful preservative in food. McCabe expressed the opinion that Wiley and his associates could not be summoned as "experts."

Missouri Man Shoots and Kills Brother of Sweetheart.

St. Louis, Mo., August 7.—Albert G. Butler, of Maplewood, Mo., a suburt of St. Louis, yesterday returned after an absence of a year, and in a quarrel with his sweetheart's brother, Eugene Walsh, shot and killed the latter. Butler was taken in custody by the Rev James Broadhead, a Methodist clergyman, who took him to the nearest police station within the city limits. Butler told the police he had been courting Miss Nellie Walsh before his departure for the East a year ago, and he was engaged to the girl. This the family deny. It was over this that the young men quarreled when they met Butler said he expected trouble, and that when he went to church he carried a revolver. He asserts that he shot in self-defense. The shooting occurred in front of the Walsh home.

Boston, returning from Europe on the liner Amerika, which arrived to-day, reported the robbery of $400 from her sultease in her cabin on August I. In the chatelaine bag with the money was several thousand dollars worth of jewelry, which the thief did not take.

"I had just received a wireless congratulationg me on my birthday, which was August I." Miss Traverse said,
"and I went down to my cabin to get some money to send a message in answer. The $400—all I had—was in an envelope marked "$400," and I suppose the thief saw this and was afraid to stop long enough to look for jewelry."

Must Know Their Position.

"But Mr. Thompson says in this remarkable statement of his that none of the money contributed by the railroads, so far as he knows and believes, roads, so far as he knows and believes, was given on condition that the recipient or the beneficiary should act in his official capacity in any particular way. This statement raises a question vital to the issue between Senator Martin and myself. Is the evidence I have produced has not already established that there was a 'yellow dog' fund—a fund to be used prior to the election of 1891 in the election of members of the Legislature who would recognize their obligations to the railroads when elected and later for the purpose of influencing legislation. railroads when elected and later for the purpose of influencing legislation, I will now introduce a document which I think will convince every 'Doubting Thomas,' and put to rest forever every denial that railroad money was used, and used directly by the agents of the railroads, to elect such members as it was believed could be relied upon to stand by the railroads. The letter which I will now read to you was written by this same Mr. Barbour Thompson It was written on October 10, 1831, which was prior to the election, and it establishes beyond all question or cavil or fought that Mr. Thompson and his agents did not aid Democratic candidates, notwithstandling their professed interest in our question or cavil or toubt that Mr. Thompson and his agents did not aid Democratic candidates, notwithstanding their professed interest in our Anglo-Saxon civilization, unless they felt thoroughly satisfied as to their position.

"I hand you my check for $1,000, five hundred of which you can use at your discretion in helping Hurt, and five hundred hold in reserve, with which to help Hatcher. Of course, if either of these men require further nasistance, and you are satisfied as to their position, we will have to arrange to help them further.

"I have written again to Mr. Bul-litt, and hope to have a satisfactory reply in a day or so, when I will com-municate with you.

"Yours truly,

(Sigaed) "J. S. B. THOMPSON."

"Again I ask, what explanation will in the way, was also a railroad man, that he should not render assistance to the two Democratic candidates for the Legislature whose names are mentioned in this damning letter, unless the was thoroughly satisfied as to their position? Note how cunningly this letter is phrased. Although the writer states that a letter which he was thoroughly satisfied as to their position? Note how cunningly this letter is phrased. Although the writer states that a letter which he was thoroughly satisfied as to their position? Note how cunningly this letter is phrased. Although the writer states that a letter which he had received from one of the candidate showed very clearly that he was looking to US for assistance, it also states that he had written that candidate 'advising him that I have asked you to see what could be done.' Mr. Thompson evidently did not think it wise to send funds to a Democratic candidate about whose 'position' he was in doubt, nor did he think it prudent to send the money coupled with a condition. I do not believe that this letter requires further comment at my hands.
